

CNAR 2021 WORKSHOP:
GOOD GOVERNANCE BEGINS AT HOME
OCTOBER 6TH, 12:00 P.M.-3:00 P.M. ET

Regulators are responsible for ensuring the good governance of professionals by setting the standards for professional activities and ensuring - or enforcing - compliance.

However, like any organization, preserving and strengthening member and stakeholder confidence starts with the Board or Council. Part of being an effective regulator, therefore, includes providing appropriate training and resources to Board members and being able to avoid or mitigate conflicts and governance issues when they arise.

This workshop will deal with some hot button issues facing Boards and address the intricacies and complexities of governance issues where that Board is a professional regulator.

W hat You Will Learn: Participants will gain practical strategies for dealing with issues such as:

- Avoiding and addressing Board member conflicts of interest
- Best practices for dealing with complaints against Board members
- Increasing Board diversity for Boards created by legislation
- Dealing with the difficult Board member
